In his scientific oration Prof. Dr. med. dr. Frans Santosa, SpJP, FIHA explained about "The Role of Non-Invasive Angiology in Maintaining and Maintaining the Flexibility of Blood Vessel Walls". Angiology is the study of arterial, venous and lymphatic vessel disease. Because arterial disease is seen as a true "domain" of blood disease. The reason for taking the title of this inauguration speech is because to socialize more non-invasive Angiology Science, both in medical science circles and to the general public.

In his remarks, the Chancellor on behalf of himself and on behalf of the UPNVJ institution and academic community congratulated him on the award of Professorship given by the Minister of Education and Culture. We welcome the presence of this work as part of a monumental work within UPNVJ and can be a reference for other academics to produce quality scientific work, as well as a reference for decision makers to establish relevant policies. It is hoped that he will be able to dedicate his knowledge for the advancement of UPNVJ.
