Public Relations UPNVJ - Universities as higher education institutions today are required not only to produce human resources with knowledge (hard skills), but also to have soft skills abilities. Soft skills are acquired through extra-curricular activities. One form of extra-curricular activities are student organization activities such as the Student Consultative Council (MPM), Student Executive Board (BEM), and Student Activity Unit (UKM), as well as the Association of Similar Student Organizations (IOMS) which require managerial knowledge and skills.

Therefore, students need to have the knowledge and managerial skills to manage student organizations, especially students who are directly and actively involved in managing student organizations at the study program, faculty and university levels. One form of effort to provide this provision is by providing a training program, namely Student Management Skills Training (PKMM) which is facilitated by the Student Affairs Division of the Jakarta "Veteran" National Development University. This PKMM activity was held for two days, starting from today (27/2) until tomorrow, 28 February 2024 at the UPNVJ Bhinneka Tunggal Ika Auditorium.
